Getting creative in Oystercatcher class

With two artists visiting school this week, the children in Oystercatcher class have been inspired to be creative! On Monday, creative writer Olivia Lowry held a session centred on the class' current book 'The Fire-work Maker's Daughter': she introduced the session with a shadow puppet show, then an 'inspiration station' of spices and sparkles helped the children to think of language in order to write a group poem.

On Thursday, visual artist Janie Macdonald used a variety of artistic techniques with the children, based on their topic of Rocks, Relics & Rumbles, to inspire the children to create amazing artwork.

Both sessions were delivered by Endelienta (whose aim is to promote the arts in North Cornwall) and funded by the Arts Council. Thank you to Endelienta for this opportunity! Endelienta – Fostering The Arts & Spirituality In North Cornwall

Thursday next week: last day of the Half Term

A reminder that this Half Term finishes on Thursday next week, as the Friday is an Inset day so no children will be in school. We know that Friday fish and chips are a popular meal, so the canteen will be serving the Friday fish-fingers & chips (or cheesy bean wrap) meal on Thursday next week! School finishes at normal time, 3.15pm, that day & we welcome the children back on Monday 28th February.

Reminder: PTFA Annual General Meeting

The Padstow School & Nursery PTFA are holding their Annual General Meeting on Tuesday next week, at 2.30pm in the Outdoor Classroom in the school grounds. All are welcome to attend!

Safer Internet Day 2022
